

“Words”

© 2009 Words and Music by Paul Marino and Shannon Perry

They can steal your heart or set you free

They can make you doubt or make you believe

They can churn the waves or calm the sea

They can be a best friend or worst enemy

Words they have a way of showing love or spewing hate

They can build you up or tear you down

Take you in or throw you out

Words they have a way of dowsing fires or fanning flames

So be careful what you say

Cause words have a way

They can let you know that you fit in

Or make you feel like giving in

They can be a summer breeze or a winter wind

They can steal your trust or bring it back again

Words they have a way of showing love or
spewing hate

They can build you up or tear you down

Take you in or throw you out

Words they have a way of dowsing fires or
fanning flames

So be careful what you say

Cause words have a way

And once they're out, you can't get em' back

No you can't get em' back

No, no

Words they have a way of showing love or
spewing hate

They can build you up or tear you down

Take you in or throw you out

Words they have a way of dowsing fires or
fanning flames

So be careful what you say

Oh be careful what you say

Be careful what you say

Cause words have a way